August Highlights

Volunteers Make a "Million Dollar Gift" to Arlington

Have you ever stopped to think about all of the volunteer energy expended in Arlington, from the work of our boards, agencies, and committees, to the dedicated efforts of Town Meeting members? ACMi's Public Affairs department is interested in recognizing, and possibly quantifying, the contributions made by countless residents who spend their own time to inventory our trees, steward our resources, monitor our finances, and so much more. This is the genesis of "The Million Dollar Gift," a new series that profiles volunteers to illuminate what they do, and why they do it. The first three episodes debut this week, and shine a light on the PicturePost project that enables anyone with a smartphone to chronicle our changing environment in real time; the work of the Open Space committee to get folks out into Arlington's natural world; and the town-wide tree inventory that has just wrapped up. It's on the Public channel – check it out!

Stand-Up Comedy Night at ACMi

Regular readers of this section are likely aware of the great variety of the programming produced and presented on ACMi. One of the most recent examples of this breadth of content comes in the form of "Stand-Up Comedy Night." This is a fun addition to our lineup that features the comedy stylings of amateur stand-up performers from local colleges. Playing to a live studio audience clearly energizes these three talented young comics, and they make the most of the opportunity. See for yourself by tuning in to the show, which will air several times weekly on our Public channel.

Episode 3 of "The Library Show"

In this episode of The Library Show, Library Director Andrea Nicolay lets us know what's up this summer. Learn about the library Summer Reading Program for adults, children, and teens. Meet Megan Coffey, the new teens service librarian, and take a walking tour of the teen section of the library! Look for "The Library Show" throughout the week on our Public channel.
